Knowledge Co-Creation Program (Group & Region Focus)

This information pertains to one of the JICA Knowledge Co-Creation Program (Group & Region Focus) of the Japan International Cooperation Agency (JICA), which shall be implemented as part of the Official Development Assistance of the Government of Japan based on bilateral agreement between both Governments.

'JICA Knowledge Co-Creation (KCC) Program' as a New Start

In the Development Cooperation Charter which was released from the Japanese Cabinet on February 2015, it is clearly pointed out that "In its development cooperation, Japan has maintained the spirit of jointly creating things that suit partner countries while respecting ownership, intentions and intrinsic characteristics of the country concerned based on a field-oriented approach through dialogue and collaboration. It has also maintained the approach of building reciprocal relationships with developing countries in which both sides learn from each other and grow and develop together." We believe that this 'Knowledge Co-Creation Program' will serve as a center of mutual learning process.

I. Concept

Background

On January 17th, 1995, the Great Hanshin-Awaji Earthquake shook violently Kobe and nearby cities resulting in losses of more than 6,000 lives and property damage of over 10 trillion yen (US$ 100 billion). The lessons learnt from the past disasters and the future strategies for disaster reduction were encapsulated in the Hyogo Framework for Action 2005 – 2015 (HFA) which was announced at the United Nations World Conference on Disaster Reduction (UNWCDR) held in Kobe in January 2005. The HFA strongly calls for pro-active measures for disaster risk reduction (DRR) and the holistic and comprehensive approaches to integrate efforts of all the stakeholders involved in DRR. On March 11, 2011, the Great East Japan Earthquake and following Tsunami caused unprecedented level of damages to Japan, and DRR is considered as of prime importance more than ever before. HFA was followed by "Progress and challenges in disaster risk reduction: a contribution towards the development of policy indicators for the post-2015 framework for disaster risk reduction" in 2014, which called for a new paradigm such as land use planning, eco-system management, socio-economic impact assessments, involvement of other stakeholders, and climate change related policies. Besides, "Sendai Framework for Disaster Risk Reduction 2015-2030" was adopted as post-HFA at the UN 3rd World Conference on Disaster Risk Reduction in Sendai, Japan, 2015, which is to promote activities on disaster risk reduction worldwide. According to Sendai Framework for DRR, there are 4 priorities for Action.

1. Understanding disaster risk;
2. Strengthening disaster risk governance to manage disaster risk;
3. Investing in disaster risk reduction for resilience;
4. Enhancing disaster preparedness for effective response, and to "Build Back Better" in recovery, rehabilitation and reconstruction.

Kobe city has undertaken community based disaster risk reduction coordinated with welfare services, which is called "Disaster-Safe Welfare Community (BOKOMI)." This activity aims for development of safer (disaster-safe) and comfortable (welfare) community, based on the lessons learnt from the Great Hanshin-Awaji Earthquake in 1995. It is expected that important information will be collected through welfare activities, and that it will be made use of at the time of emergency.

Limitation of "public-help" capabilities was recognized as one of the lessons from 1995, so this activity has put emphasis on "self-help" and "mutual help within a community" under the collaboration between residents, enterprises and local government (fire department plays a central role within local government in this approach of Kobe) both in ordinary time and at emergency.

Importance of community based disaster risk reduction has been emphasized based on lessons learnt from natural disasters occurred all over the world recently, and it is expected, accordingly, that this program will contribute to promotion of community based disaster risk reduction in each country by introducing and experiencing the Kobe's effort of "Disaster-Safe Welfare Community (BOKOMI)."

For what?

The participants will understand the significance of disaster risk reduction for natural disasters and needs of self-help and mutual help, and acquire the concrete method for promotion of community based disaster risk reduction in each country through the activities of self-help organization of residents for disaster risk reduction such as "Disaster-Safe Welfare Community" in Kobe City

For whom?

This program is designed for organizations which can play a leading role in promotion of community based disaster risk reduction and dissemination of self-help organization of residents for disaster risk reduction. (e.g. Disaster management planning organization/division, community development organization in central/local government)

How?

It is expected to contribute to promotion of community based disaster risk reduction in each country, by introducing Kobe's effort of "Disaster-Safe Welfare Community." In this program, experience and practice will be emphasized; especially you will have some chances to participate in disaster drills in which residents play a leading role.

ANNEX 2

(Background information on training program "Community based disaster risk management- Introduction of Kobe's Efforts")

● What is "Disaster-Safe Welfare Community" (BOKOMI)?

Kobe city has undertaken community based disaster risk reduction coordinated with welfare services, which is called "disaster-safe welfare community" (BOKOMI).

This activity aims for development of safer (disaster-safe) and comfortable (welfare) community, based on the lessons learnt from the Great Hanshin-Awaji Earthquake in 1995.

If mutual-help activities take root in community in ordinary times, emergency response by residents will be effective at the time of emergency.

Firefighting, rescue effort and emergency relief were required simultaneously, which was beyond the capability of public support, at the time of the Great Hanshin-Awaji Earthquake. It is said that the 3/4 of those who were rescued, were rescued by their neighbors. It is also said that communities with strong tie in ordinary times showed remarkable mutual-help activities among residents than other communities.

It is expected that important information will be collected through activities of "Disaster-Safe Welfare Community," especially through welfare activities, and that it will be made use of at the time of emergency. It is also expected that community ties will be strengthen through disaster drills, festivals and other events.

● How to establish "Disaster-Safe Welfare Community" (BOKOMI)?

1 Organizing people

- A "Disaster-Safe Welfare Community" will be established based on school area of primary school. This size of organization will be easier for activate mutual-help.

JICA and Capacity Development

The key concept underpinning JICA operations since its establishment in 1974 has been the conviction that "capacity development" is central to the socioeconomic development of any country, regardless of the specific operational scheme one may be undertaking, i.e. expert assignments, development projects, development study projects, training programs, JOCV programs, etc.

Within this wide range of programs, Training Programs have long occupied an important place in JICA operations. Conducted in Japan, they provide partner countries with opportunities to acquire practical knowledge accumulated in Japanese society. Participants dispatched by partner countries might find useful knowledge and re-create their own knowledge for enhancement of their own capacity or that of the organization and society to which they belong.

About 460 pre-organized programs cover a wide range of professional fields, ranging from education, health, infrastructure, energy, trade and finance, to agriculture, rural development, gender mainstreaming, and environmental protection. A variety of programs are being customized to address the specific needs of different target organizations, such as policy-making organizations, service provision organizations, as well as research and academic institutions. Some programs are organized to target a certain group of countries with similar developmental challenges.

Japanese Development Experience

Japan was the first non-Western country to successfully modernize its society and industrialize its economy. At the core of this process, which started more than 140 years ago, was the "adopt and adapt" concept by which a wide range of appropriate skills and knowledge have been imported from developed countries; these skills and knowledge have been adapted and/or improved using local skills, knowledge and initiatives. They finally became internalized in Japanese society to suit its local needs and conditions.

From engineering technology to production management methods, most of the know-how that has enabled Japan to become what it is today has emanated from this "adoption and adaptation" process, which, of course, has been accompanied by countless failures and errors behind the success stories. We presume that such experiences, both successful and unsuccessful, will be useful to our partners who are trying to address the challenges currently faced by developing countries.

However, it is rather challenging to share with our partners this whole body of Japan's developmental experience. This difficulty has to do, in part, with the challenge of explaining a body of "tacit knowledge," a type of knowledge that cannot fully be expressed in words or numbers. Adding to this difficulty are the social and cultural systems of Japan that vastly differ from those of other Western industrialized countries, and hence still remain unfamiliar to many partner countries. Simply stated, coming to Japan might be one way of overcoming such a cultural gap.

JICA, therefore, would like to invite as many leaders of partner countries as possible to come and visit us, to mingle with the Japanese people, and witness the advantages as well as the disadvantages of Japanese systems, so that integration of their findings might help them reach their developmental objectives.
